

1. Fontana Maggiore

Masterpiece of medieval Italian sculpture, built between 1275 and 1280 by Nicola and Giovanni Pisano, following the design of Fra Bevignate, overlooking the centre of Piazza IV Novembre, formerly Piazza Grande.

2. Fountain of the Etruscan Arch

Built by Count Girolamo Tezì, in 1621, near the left tower of the monumental Etruscan gate, in Piazza Braccio Fortebracci.

3. Fountain in Via Maestà delle Volte

It was designed by the architect Pietro Angelini in 1928, after the general planning of the area, copying Perugia's medieval wells and fountains.

4. Piscinello Fountain

One of Perugia's oldest fountains, dating back to the same period as the planning of San Francesco al Prato (1258), which was brought back to light in 1900 and restored by Pietro Frenguelli and Bruno Signorini.

7. Lomellina Fountain

Built by the papal legate Lorenzo Lomellini in 1678, on the occasion of the planning of the road Via Lomellina, now Via Marzia, which is recalled on the stone plaque on the fountain.

5. Veggio Fountain

Work by Matteo Salvucci (1615-42), made under the papal legate Antonio Diaz to channel and collect the waters of the spring in the area of what is now Pescara Park. The name, which was later given to the whole area, refers to the person who owned the land during that period.

6. Fountain of Neptune

Near Sant'Ercolano, it was built by the municipal engineer Filippo Lardoni for Piazza del Sopramuro (now Piazza Matteotti), and later moved to the gardens near Sant'Ercolano in 1887, to make way for the Garibaldi monument that was moved to Piazza Partigiani.

8. Fountains in Piazza Italia

At the sides of the central flower bed, where there is the monument to Vittorio Emanuele II by Vittorio Tavolini (1890), you can find two similar fountains, decorated by two statues, the Mermaid and the Girl in the sun, by A. Checchi (Florence 1886-Perugia 1971), who taught painting at the Academy of Fine Arts in Perugia.
