

1. Etruscan Arch or Augustus Arch

Monumental entrance of the Etruscan boundary wall (3rd-2nd cent. BC), facing north, with mighty towers. It was restored in the Augustan Age, and preserves the inscriptions COLONIA VIBIA and AUGUSTA PERUSIA. In blocks of travertine like the other gates and boundary wall.

2. Boundary wall in via Battisti

One of the most beautiful stretches of the Etruscan wall. Note the string-course cornice that is counter-sloping in relation to the road built in the early 1900.

4. Canapina Walls

Beautiful sloping stretch along the breathtaking Canapina stairway from the church of San Benedetto to the point, which joins the medieval walls.

6. Walls in Via del Paradiso

One of the few stretches of Etruscan walls preserved in this area, near the gate.

7. Porta Eburnea or della Mandorla and Etruscan walls under the Donati Tower

On the original ashlar, re-positioned irregularly, are the fragmentary inscriptions of the Roman colony. The medieval arch can be found on the original piers.

8. Porta Marzia

Monumental Etruscan Gate, facing south, towards Orvieto and Rome. All that remains is the upper part, which is of considerable symbolic and decorative elegance that was taken down and reconstructed on the front of the Rocca Paolina Fortress.

9. Arch of Sant'Ercolano or Porta Cornea

Like the other Etruscan gates, its pointed vault, surmounted by the Guelph lion, was transformed in the Middle Ages.

10. Walls in via della Pazienza

Beautiful, short uphill stretch.

11. Arco dei Gigli

One of the Etruscan gates, which preserves its original piers, on which the arch of the medieval gate stands. It opened to the east and from here the Etruscan road diverged towards the Tiber.
